

Client: Grand Central
Source: Telegraph & Argus (Bradford) (Main)
Date: 24 August 2011
Page: 4
Reach: 27627
Size: 264cm2
Value: 1248.72

The cake now departing...

Passengers travelling on trains from Bradford Interchange to London can now have their cake and eat it.

Rail company Grand Central, which runs direct services to the capital, is selling a selection of freshly baked goods from Leeds-based bakery Exquisite Hand Made Cakes.

The business was set up seven years ago by former chartered accountant Viv Parry, who visited the station yesterday to hand over some of her cakes to members of Grand Central's onboard team.

Catering manager Stephen Sands said: "The cakes are beautifully fresh and tasty, and because they are made to order, we get very little waste. They are going down very well with our customers with the moist blueberry muffin establishing itself as a firm favourite."

TASTE: Viv Parry, of Exquisite Hand Made Cakes, and Grand Central's Will Preece